Dear Jane C. Henney, M.D.,

I am making a demand that the Food & Drug Administration require labeling for ALL genetically engineered foods. I am the only person I know that manages to keep genetically engineered foods out of my diet, but it is hard. I just never go into a grocery store at all anymore, & only buy organically grown foods. We're vegans now. But it shouldn't be questionably unsafe to go to a grocery store. You have to label the stuff. People want to know. People need to know. I know for my family's health if that insane law passed allowing bioengineered foods to be labeled organically grown, that we would have moved out of the US for safer food. This is so insane. It's got to stop.

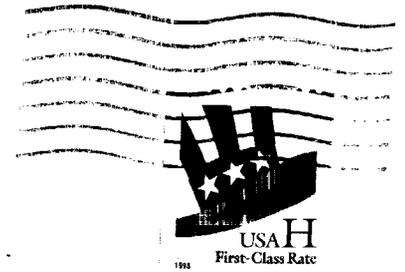

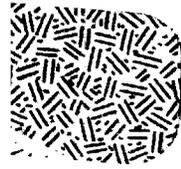

Thanks for your ear, but help too.

Sincerely,
Peggy Clark Lumpkins
